

RAILROAD MEN IN INTENSIVE STUDY OF WILSON IDEAS

One Group of Old School Operators in Fighting Mood While Pacifists Form Another Faction—Representatives of Brotherhood Wax Impatient.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 22.—Responsibility for negotiations looking to the settlement of the strike crisis confronting the railroads of the country today rested exclusively with the big group of railroad executives in conference here. The railroad presidents undertook an intensive study of the final proposal made by President Wilson which would force them to concede a "basic eight hour day" in train service, in their efforts to find a way out of the tangled situation. There were nearly 100 railroad representatives in the various conferences and they developed sharp differences of opinion as to the course to be pursued. Meanwhile the brotherhood committee "marked time."

It was apparent at the outset that the railroad executives would not be able to agree to accept President Wilson's proposal without modification. As soon as this was determined the executives settled down to formulate a counter proposition, which, while modifying the president's demands to some extent, would meet the spirit of the proposal which has already been accepted by the representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods.

One group of railroad executives, led by the old guard of railroading in fighting mood. They embraced such men as E. P. Ripley, dean of the executives, a seventy-one year old veteran of the railroad wars of the days of Harriman and the Goulds, Grim, and the Bittors, who formed the center of a group who insisted that the time has come to fight to determine who is to run the railroads of the country. They were for an out and out refusal of any settlement which did not put all the demands of the men in the hands of an impartial board of arbitration.

Time as an Ally.
On the other hand, a small group of "pacifists" favored accepting the president's demands as they stand, and depending upon time to show the futility of an effort to force an eight hour day in train service. They proposed that the railroads agree to the president's proposals, and then demonstrate that the plan would not work. This group gained strength as the conferences proceeded.

One counter proposition which met with some favor would call upon the president to give some assurance that after the railroads agree to accept the eight hour day, there will be forthcoming a legal, bona fide government agency to determine the collateral questions in dispute.

Administration Confident.
While the railroad executives thrashed over the situation, administration officials were confident that the president's efforts ultimately would bring peace. They declared that the executives could not afford to accept the responsibility for a nationwide strike and that eventually they would agree to the president's proposal.

Representatives of the four brotherhoods held a formal meeting this morning "just to keep the men together," the leaders said. They were growing impatient at the long delay by the representatives of the roads, but the leaders insisted upon playing a waiting game. Strike orders, however, were all ready to be issued, at any time the railroad executives made it plain that a settlement could not be reached.

BOY SCOUTS AT CAMP WALTON

Having a Delightful Time and Glad to See Visitors From Home—No Children Under 16 Allowed to Visit the Camp.

The Boy Scouts camping at Camp Walton, on Senator Walton's farm on Lucas avenue, are apparently having the time of their lives and although three or four of the boys were attacked with homesickness during the first few days of their stay they quickly recovered when they saw the good time being enjoyed by the other boys. Friends who wish to visit the boys may do so, provided they are over 16 years of age; small brothers and sisters will not be allowed on the camp grounds as the boys are under quarantine while in camp, in obedience to the town of Hurley health ordinance and also in order that they will not have to be quarantined when they return to Kingston. By keeping children under 16 from visiting the camp the boys are safer from infectious disease than while in the city.

A number of visitors were at the camp on Sunday, among whom were, S. Weisberg, who came to visit his son, Mr. and Mrs. George Schryver, James Davis and Edsel Flowers, Joseph Netherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Glennon, Mr. and Mrs. Ward B. Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Connelly and Miss Connelly, Dr. S. T. Levittas, Mrs. H. Markson. Perhaps the most appreciated visit was that of Mr. Everett who brought out ten quarts of ice cream for the boys.

The boys now in camp will remain for several days. Any scout in the city should register by 6 o'clock Wednesday night with C. A. Warren, 260 Fair street, if he wishes to go to camp for the second period. If the number of new boys is not filled by then any boy who is now in camp and wishes to remain may do so by making out application and paying $5. The actual cost of a week's board. The applications will be considered according to the order in which they are received. The total number of boys for the camping trip will be 25 and any application received after this number has been received will have to be rejected as the camp will accommodate but a limited number.

No boy if he is under 16 will be allowed to visit camp and no parents will be allowed to bring children under 16 on account of the health regulations.

Perhaps the most popular man in camp is Gus Bonesteel, the cook, who is kept busy hustling for the campers. The lake for the past few warm days has been a source of much enjoyment for the boys who are allowed plenty of swimming under the supervision of the camp attendants. The boys have excellent facilities for bathing in the Blinewater Lake which is within a few minutes walk of the camp.

The camp is located upon high ground free from brush and weeds and is an ideal spot. The road, while not the best, may be traveled by an automobile and is plainly marked with signs which will guide the strangers to the camp. Visitors are always welcomed at the camp and any doubtful parent who is anxious over the safety of his boys should visit the spot.

The following letter has been received from one of the boys in camp:

Camp Walton, Friday, Aug. 18.—Boys started from C. A. Warren's store, 260 Fair street, at 9:30 a. m. Arrived at camp 11:15. At noon found dinner awaiting us, which was prepared by "Gus," our camp cook. It consisted of fried eggs, boiled potatoes, sliced tomatoes, hot biscuits, bread and butter, rice pudding, hot cocoa. 12:30 squad duties were performed which were police, water, wood, sanitary and water squads. The boys were all eager to perform the latter duty as many were noticed around the dishpans during dish washing time. Two o'clock games were played. Six p. m., supper was served. Six-thirty, squad duties were again performed. Seven-thirty, all boys seated around the council fire, sang songs, told stories and played games. Nine o'clock taps were sounded.

Sat., Aug. 19, 1916.—The regular program was carried out. Special care was given to the instructions, which were signalling and first aid. During the day the boys worked on the dam which they had started to build. A. H. Townsend, the camp director of Camp Walton, is an Eagle Scout, having acquired 23 merit badges while being a Boy Scout. He has been sent from national headquarters to take charge of the boys. It was through the aid of C. A. Warren and the local council, Mr. Townsend has had eight years' experience in this line of work and knows more about scouting than any one north of Albany. Jerry Yaples, while watching the boys in swimming, succeeded in falling into the lake, but alas, it was too late for the boys already had been called out from the water and Jerry could not finish his bath. The only thing noticeable was that Jerry was exceedingly clean, and as no barrel was handy he had to use a camp blanket. Claude Short, who had been swimming to the brain, fell out of his bunk trying to make a Johnnie high dive. Gus Bonesteel is the most popular one in camp. Bishop, while in an angry rage, tried to pass a kick, slipped his toe. Poor Bishop had to lay in bed for a while. Mosquitoes are plentiful but fish are scarce out here. Barentsen also claimed that while fishing he had caught a big five pound pickerel, but the pickerel broke the hook and pole and jumped

LIVING COST DUE TO CITY DELIVERY

Census Bureau to Attack Soaring of Necessities in New Quarter—Cartage Cost Higher Than Railroad Freights.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 22.—A new investigation bearing on the industrial situation in the United States is about to be undertaken by the bureau of the census. The inquiry will be to determine the cost of cartage in American cities and is declared by experts to be of the utmost importance in its relation to the high cost of living and the wages of labor.

Comptroller of the Treasury Warlick has just handed down a decision authorizing the expense involved in making the inquiry and work will start as soon as Secretary of Commerce Redfield gives formal authorization. This is expected immediately upon Mr. Redfield's return from his vacation.

Experts of the census bureau believe that the extreme retail prices of commodities in common use are due largely to the high cost of city cartage. The city delivery system is largely believed to blame for the high cost of living. The experts estimate that a greater percentage of the cost of goods is chargeable to city cartage than to railroad freight rates. The investigation will go thoroughly into all phases of the problem.

BURGLAR SCARES DURING NIGHT

Reported Burglars at Residence of A. H. Cook on Albany Avenue and Judge Stephan on West Chester Street. Keep Things Lively.

Two reported burglary scares kept things moving on Monday evening. The first came about 8:30 o'clock that night when Former County Treasurer Albert H. Cook received word at Hotel Ulster that burglars were busy at his handsome residence on Albany avenue. Mr. Cook is noted for his efficient work in politics which has taught him prompt action, and as he left the telephone he hurried a command here and there and in less time that it takes to tell he had assembled a posse from some of the husky men at the hotel. With one accord the posse headed by Mr. Cook leaped into a waiting automobile and hurried to the scene. They found that it had been a false alarm.

Still later in the evening a hurried call came from the residence of Judge Stephan on West Chester street that burglars were busy. A policeman was hurried to the scene, and made an investigation and found another false alarm. Judge Stephan was absent from home at the time.

FIT-THROWER WAS DRUNK.

So He Goes to Jail For 10 Days, Not Having $10.

Charles Schoonmaker, known in police circles as "the fit thrower" was arrested on Monday evening by Policemen Healey on a charge of public intoxication and using indecent language on the streets. Schoonmaker was arraigned before Recorder Lang this morning, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10. As he did not have that amount of money with him he was sent to jail for ten days. This was Schoonmaker's first appearance in court in many moons. He confessed that he was drunk. To use his expression he said "I was tight, but I don't remember using any bad language." Questioned as to when he was last arrested he said he had never been arrested but had been brought to jail several times for having fits. He pleaded hard to be given another chance, but the court informed him he was not inclined to grant clemency. Schoonmaker when asked where he lived said "across the chain ferry." He said he had a poor old mother at home who was waiting for his return, but Recorder Lang informed him he should have thought of his mother before he got drunk.

Paris, Aug. 22.—Field Marshal Von Mackensen, who was recently reported by French army officers to be directing German operations on the western front, is now reported to be in supreme command in the Balkans.

In the view of military critics the reported presence of Field Marshal von Mackensen in Macedonia is worthy of credence. It was he who directed the operations of the Teutons and Bulgars on the great drive that conquered Serbia, so he is familiar with the ground and the conditions prevailing there. Von Mackensen has never fought on the western front, so far as known.

GREAT SUCCESS OF FRENCH ARMY

Much of it is believed to be due to the use of milk before the soldiers go in battle.

The Philadelphia Press has been giving much attention both in its news columns and editorially to the recent discovery by the Pasteur Institute of the great stimulating qualities of pasteurized milk, and its use in the French army, urging its free use in the Quaker City, by all classes. For several months this valuable food article has been freely given, as the one stimulant, to the soldiers in the trenches, says the Press, and its use has amply justified the statement made by the institute in regard to it, that pasteurized milk is one of the most powerful stimulants known.

The way the discovery was made was in part accidental and in part deliberate. A large number of puppies were being treated with various drugs to find the relative difference between them in the way of improving the animals to work small tread mills. All the well-known medicines, such as caffeine, strychnine, digitalis and a long list of drugs were given and their energy, power, endurance and strength were measured. The puppies thus tested were found to exhibit varying degrees of vitality and strength under the influence of the drugs given, but were sooner or later more exhausted than when given none of the drug stimulants.

One of the investigators observed that three of the puppies that seemed to have an instinctive dislike to the food with which they were fed, had been, consequently, fed almost exclusively on pasteurized cow's milk, and seemed to be growing faster and also to be more active and muscular and less given to falling immediately asleep than the others. Dr. Kamb and, the investigator, at once gave one-half of the puppies a half-saucer of milk before they were set to their daily work. The puppies which had been given the milk performed their work with a dash and form three times greater than the other puppies, were less exhausted and more playful after their work, and did this irrespective of the particular drug which was given them beforehand. All of the dogs were tried in this way and it was found that pasteurized milk showed a slowing of the pulse, strengthened the heart and muscles, toned up the whole animal, and acted as an undoubted stimulant of the most efficient type.

Through the recommendation of the institute the use of pasteurized milk was adopted by the French Army, and the French Government was so impressed with its success that it ordered all cafe proprietors in Paris to push the sale of the milk in preference to all other drinks.

The Press in urging the free use of milk in Philadelphia says "that the qualities of stimulation should be demonstrated on the fighting men should commend the beverage to those engaged in the pursuits of peace. While alcohol may give the brain and dull the sensibilities, and thus impart a false courage, pasteurized milk, according to the learned scientists of the Pasteur Institute, performs the work of keeping up the individual, keeping his senses up and cooling his judgment. This is necessary to the mode of warfare which the great war has exemplified, but it is no less necessary to the man or woman working in the office, in the store, in the studio, in the mill, or elsewhere. This milk has the qualities of a true elixir of life. It contains sugar, minerals, oils, fats, albumens, starches, etc., it also contains the power of not only whipping up the living tissues but holding them pleasantly to the task without the subsequent reaction and collapse so usual with artificial stimulants.

PRISON PHYSICIAN FEARS PARALYSIS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 22.—Believing that infantile paralysis might be brought to Clinton prison by visitors, Dr. Julius R. Ransome, the physician in charge at the institution, has written James M. Carter, state superintendent of prisons, requesting that all visits to that institution be stopped until the malady has run its course.

Dr. Ransome recommends that Superintendent Carter consult the state health department inasmuch as that department has jurisdiction, now that the plague is so prevalent. He points out that should infantile paralysis break out in Clinton prison, it would be almost impossible to control it. He also urges all of the seven institutions be closed to visitors pending the stamping out of the disease.

There were 35 new cases today and two deaths, making the total 1,457 and 159 respectively. The deaths were at Cazenovia, Madison county, and at McGrawville, Cortland county.

His Debut.

"Emmett Whillikeas just natchery prized up back while his wife was away, didn't he?" "Gosh! I should say so," replied a prominent citizen at Petuna. "Why, he had a gang of fellows at his house most every night till 9:30 drinking dillberry wine, playing dominoes and listening to dance tunes on the phonograph!"—Kansas City Star.

From a City's Mountain Tops.

Upon the top of one of New York's man made mountains there is the same peaceful quiet as on any mountain top. No sound from the street below comes up this distance. Men on the sidewalks are infinitesimal dots, darning hither and yon. Looking down upon them, one is inclined to reflect what puny beings humans are and from this lofty point of view almost forgets his sympathy for their personal interests. Then comes the realization that this mountain was built by these puny beings from materials dug out of the earth in a crude state, purified, shaped and fastened together in a manner that will make it stand practically for all time, and then a feeling of reverence for the human brain—that God given boon which has made these things possible.—National Geographic Guided by Magnetic Currents.

Recent experience has tended to show that carrier pigeons and other birds of passage are guided by magnetic currents. M. A. Thauzies, a French student of pigeons, has noted that on two occasions when pigeon flights were unsatisfactory magnetic storms were occurring, and the flights of these birds have been becoming often uncertain and erratic since wireless telegraphy came into extensive use.

Perfect Philosophy.

And as for me, let what will come, I can receive no damage from it, unless I think it a calamity; and it is in my power to think it none, if I so decide.—Marcus Aurelius.

Mesmerism and Hypnotism.

You may say that "mesmerism is a form of hypnotism," or you may, with equal propriety, say that "hypnotism is a form of mesmerism." It is as broad as it is long. Mesmerism is so-called from the fact that it first sprang into prominence through one F. A. Mesmer, a German physician of Merseburg, about 1700. The name mesmerism has in these days been eclipsed by the more familiar hypnotism.

Oh, Girls.

"I intend to marry for love," said the girl with the dreamy eyes. "You are wise, say dear," replied her dearest friend. "Men with money are often so hard to please."

Homemade Varnish.

A simple recipe for a good varnish suitable for table tops is as follows: Mix enough lampblack with shellac to make the mixture black, but not enough to thicken it much. After sandpapering the wood smooth, apply two coats of varnish, sandpapering lightly after each coat. Over this put one or two coats of dull varnish. This makes the wood waterproof, preserves it, and improves the appearance of the table top.

Generous.

"Why, Willie, I'm ashamed of you. You should have shared your apples with your little cousin." "What? Let him share my chewing gum while I was eating the apple?"

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 22, 1916.

President Wilson is reported as saying that if there is a railroad strike "the responsibility will not rest with me." There is room for difference of opinion on this point. Leaving out of the argument all question as to what pay the men ought to have and how many hours they should work, the big fact stands out that the railroad companies have asked for arbitration, while the employees declare that they will have their own way without arbitration. Any one who objects to referring his disputes to a fair tribunal thereby casts doubt upon the justice of his contention. It seems clear enough that it was the business of the President of the United States to insist upon arbitration. He has said in an interview or statement that there is not time enough for it, but that is nonsense. There is nothing pressing about the eight-hour day. In fact, it would be almost criminal for the railroad officials to increase their payrolls by fifty million dollars without careful consideration. These officials do not own the railroads. They are only managers and they spend money owned by the stockholders. Of course, Wilson is pursuing his present course under the impression that it will make votes for him, but it is inconceivable to us that there will be such a result.

Just at the time when he begins to feel the need of votes in the coming election, President Wilson discovers that he has been lending the helping hand which has made farmers prosperous throughout the United States and so he has written a letter to the chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, which will be used by the Democratic National Committee as a campaign document. The occasion for the letter is the signing of the President of the annual appropriations bill for the Department of Agriculture. Following the noble precedent thus established, it will be necessary for the President next to write letters calling attention to the helping hand he has given to all classes of men who are earning their living. It is doubtful if he will write very extensively to the chairman of the committee which has been handling the pork barrel appropriations for the improvement of streams which by no possibility can be made navigable for boats larger than a motor yacht, or for building post offices costing from fifty thousand dollars upward in villages half the size of Ellenville, and one hundred thousand dollars upward for villages whose population is about half that of Saugerties. There is one class to whom the President might well write a long letter calling attention to the friendship he has actually manifested for them, and that is the large army of incompetents who have been drafted from the ranks of men who could not keep a job under a private employer who might require competency and efficiency, and have been entrusted with the business of running the government. Yet this class of men is by no means small and the President certainly is entitled to their vote.

That jolly little statesman, Secretary of War Baker, has written a letter saying that the National Guard is "winning bloodless victories daily" on the Mexican frontier and that it will be kept there until it can be withdrawn without endangering American lives and property. This means that it will stay there forever, or until we have a change of our National policy. The Mexican is a savage and he will never reform. The only way to deal with him is the way our forefathers dealt with the Redskins in our own land. Moral suasion does no good. Police is a temporary expedient. It may seem good to the Secretary to say that "so soon as a restored state of order on the border justifies it these troops will be returned to their homes," but neither he nor any one else can construct even a plausible theory as to how order can ever be restored by means of present methods.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, it is feasible to grind into meal the waste of the salmon and radish industries and feed it to domestic animals. Experiments prove, it is stated, that this diet makes cows give better milk and causes hens to produce more eggs. It is well known that pigs, hens and goats will eat anything, but until it has been generally supposed that horses and cows were strict vegetarians. Possibly these noble animals have restricted their diet solely through lack of ability to get meat foods. Once let them get a taste for food in greater variety, and it is hard to say what will happen. Perhaps they will demand six-course dinners and if they do the S. P. C. A. will see that they are gratified. They may even start in with cocktails and finish with cigars.

GLENFORD.

Glenford, Aug. 21.—The echoes from Woodstock valley resounded for miles around on Friday, August 18, when the artistic and talented people of Woodstock and neighboring villages celebrated their "Annual Festival" on the Mavorick grounds.

The program was of length and variety. The Canterbury pilgrimage from Woodstock in the early afternoon, exhibition of Alex. Aberg, the world's champion wrestler, and last the Masque of Woodstock, staged on the rustic stage of the "Stone Quarry Theater." At 10 p. m. a funny dress ball was given in the hall below the Quarry Theater, where both old and young alike took part. Uncle Eben.

"Givin' advice," said Uncle Eben, "is often a roundabout way of blindin' a man dat you don't think he's got as much sense as you have."

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Wife—"This paper tells of a man out in Ohio who lives on onions alone." Hub—"Well, any one who lives on onions ought to live alone."

—Boston Transcript.

Meeker—"Didn't I always give you my salary check the first of every month?" Mrs. Meeker—"Yes; but you never told me that you got paid on the 1st and 11th, you em-buzzler!"—Judge.

Lightleigh—"I am sure if you accepted me, I'd make you a good husband." Miss Wayleigh—"That's quite out of the question; but I'm sure I'd make you a good husband if I accepted you!"—Puck.

Hubby—"Hubbs is no kind of an umpire. He's no judge of souls." Wife—"Why, hubby, I'm surprised to hear you say so, when he raises the best fancy chickens in the neighborhood."—Baltimore American.

"Isn't what they call 'the approach' an important consideration in golf?" "Very important. You've got to have the kind of a job that will permit you to approach the golf links early in the afternoon."

—Washington Star.

"How does your boy Josh like his job in the city?" "First rate," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "He knows more about the business than the man that owns it." "Who told you that?" "John did. All he's got to do now is to convince the boss of it, an' git promoted."—Washington Star.

Truly Wonderful.

A camera man, working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer coming out of a house in one of the Middle States, and explained his presence on the place thus: "I have just been taking some moving pictures of life on your farm."

"Did you catch any of my laborers in motion?" asked the old man curiously. "Sure, I did!" The farmer shook his head reflectively, and then said: "Science is a wonderful thing!"—New York Times.

Quite Safe.

Ring Lardner colloquialisms of the Middle West take queer shoots sometimes. A servant who had had several beaux about whom she talked a great deal was asked by her mistress about one Henry, he of the mild blue eyes and fair skin.

"Where is he now?" "Him? Oh, I got him up in my room, locked up safe enough in a closet," replied Mary.

"Locked up—Mary, you don't mean to say you've got a young man in your room?"

"Oh, yes, ma'm. He's handsome, Henry is. Come, I'll show you."

They went upstairs. Mary marched to a closet and threw open the door. The mistress stepped backward expecting she knew not what. All that happened was that Mary opened a trunk, and from beneath a pile of clean handkerchiefs took out a photograph.

"There," said she, "that's Henry. Ain't he just handsome?"—Exchange.

He Knew the Sound.

London Fun relates that in a village cricket match over the water, the local butcher was batting. The ball bumped up and hit him on the head, from which the wicket-keeper made a catch.

"How's that?" yelled the wicket-keeper.

"Hout," said the umpire.

"But it hit me on the head," protested the batsman.

"I don't know where it 'it you," responded the umpire, "but I know the sound of wood, so hout you go!"

Welcome.

In a little bush league town out west the ball club considers itself lucky if, at the end of the season, gate receipts have been enough to pay expenses and there is enough to buy a round of cigars.

During a recent game a biplane was observed hovering low over the park, and the manager was just wondering whether airships were to be added to house roofs and knotholes as a medium for beating the gate, when the machine lurched and dropped rather heavily into the outfield.

Presently the birdman opened his eyes to find the manager bending solicitously over him. That official gave a sigh of relief at the stranger's return to life, and remarked cheerfully:

"Feeling all right, now, old fellow? Then you can just give me your quarter and we'll go on with the game!"

—New York Times.

Nelson Not to Blame.

Once an old lady was being shown over Nelson's ship Victory. As the party approached the spot where Nelson met his death, the attendant pointed to the brass plate fixed in the deck and said:

"That is where Nelson fell."

The old lady was impressed, but not in the right way.

"No wonder!" she said. "I nearly tripped over that thing myself."—New York Times.

KINGSTON ON LINE OF YELLOWSTONE TRAIL

War Department Automobile Message Across Continent Will Beelayed Here on Way From Plymouth Rock to Seattle.

By an arrangement between the war department of the United States and the Yellowstone Trail Association, an official message of the war department will be carried across the United States from Plymouth Rock to Seattle, Washington, to the commanding officer of Fort Lawton. This message will be one for the purpose of testing the practicability and serviceability not only of the roads for long distance transportation purposes in short time, but the organization that can be brought to bear in case of necessity.

The war department will write the official message, seal it and place it in the hands of the Yellowstone Trail Association, through their representatives at Plymouth, Mass. It will be carried by them over the Yellowstone Trail to Seattle, by a system of relays, in as short a time as possible.

In the run the war department requires the Yellowstone Trail Association to give them data on the number of relays used, the sections covered by each, the running time on each section, whether by day or night, the details concerning the automobiles used, and the experience with each of them, having reference, more particularly, to the qualities of endurance and serviceability. All of these things must be reported to the commanding officer at Fort Lawton, Washington.

The carrying of the message will be under general charge of H. O. Cooley, general agent of the Yellowstone Trail Association, which maintains its headquarters at Aberdeen, South Dakota. For this run the whole country has been divided into fourteen general relays. These relays are as follows:

No. 1—Plymouth, Mass., to Kingston, N. Y., 216.8 miles.

No. 2—Kingston, N. Y., to Olean, N. Y., 332.2 miles.

No. 3—Olean, N. Y., to Akron, Ohio, 219 miles.

No. 4—Akron, Ohio, to Ft. Wayne, Ind., 229.5 miles.

No. 5—Ft. Wayne, Ind., to Chicago, Ill., 186 miles.

No. 6—Chicago, Ill., to Milwaukee, Wis., 96 miles.

No. 7—Milwaukee, Wis., to Minneapolis, Minn., 404 miles.

No. 8—Minneapolis, Minn., to Ortonville, Minn., 204 miles.

No. 9—Ortonville, Minn., to Lemmon, S. D., 349 miles.

No. 10—Lemmon, S. D., to Miles City, Mont., 257 miles.

No. 11—Miles City, Mont., to Livingston, Mont., 287 miles.

No. 12—Livingston, Mont., to Missoula, Mont., 268 miles.

No. 13—Missoula, Mont., to Colfax, Wash., 260 miles.

No. 14—Colfax, Wash., to Seattle, Wash., 371 miles.

A general relay manager will have charge of each one of these general relays. Most of these general relay managers have already been appointed. The first will be attended to by A. S. Burbank, Plymouth Commercial Club, Plymouth, Mass.; the second by H. L. Harkness, secretary of Automobile Club, Binghamton, N. Y.; the fifth by William M. Griffin, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; the seventh by Erie Whipple of Wau-paca, Wis.; the eighth by Dr. H. F. Marston, 305 Donaldson Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.; the ninth by J. R. Hubbard, of Aberdeen, S. D.; the tenth by D. F. A. Finch, of Lemmon, S. D.; the eleventh by Dr. G. E. Brown of Miles City, Mont.; the twelfth by W. C. Busche, of Livingston, Mont.; the thirteenth by F. E. Stone, of Wallace, Idaho. The remainder of the general relays are pending arrangement at this time.

General Agent H. O. Cooley, of the Yellowstone Trail Association, expresses confidence not only that the message will be delivered in the 120 hours scheduled, running night and day, every moment of lapsed time counting after leaving Plymouth, but firmly believes that a few hours will be taken off from that time.

Nothing of this kind has ever before been undertaken, and it will be interesting to follow the progress of the run.

The date the message will leave Plymouth, Mass., will be announced within a week.

FARMS OF STATE SURPRISE A DANE

Expert Opinion in Empire State Resources is Most Favorable—Cheapness of Land and Civic Progress Interest European Visitor.

That he had been in many states on a tour of inspection for the Danish government and that in none of them had he seen crops of potatoes, corn, hay and oats which compared with the crops of these in New York state was the opinion expressed by E. P. Jacobsen, of Copenhagen.

Mr. Jacobsen was sent to this country by Denmark to make a survey of agricultural conditions here and to obtain information on our advanced agricultural methods in this country upon which he is to make a report to Denmark so that the government may take steps to improve agriculture there. After a trip through eleven counties he told Commissioner Wilson that he was greatly impressed when he viewed the growing crops and observed the fertility of the soil.

"But that which impressed me most forcibly," he said to Commissioner Wilson, "was the price at which the fertile land in this section of the state is available."

Land which the representative of the Danish government inspected with Charles W. Larmon, head of the bureau of statistics in the department, is held at $50 and $60 an acre and some of it at a lower price than this.

In addition to his comments on agriculture, Mr. Jacobsen said he was surprised at the civic pride shown in the beautiful villages and cities in the agricultural districts. The Saratoga Springs, he said, were most interesting to him. He said little was known of them in other countries.

In addition to representing the Danish government, Mr. Jacobsen represents agricultural societies in Denmark. Besides reporting on agriculture in this country to his government with a view of bringing improvement there, he will assist in the placing of Danish immigrants on farms in this country.

Mr. Jacobsen in company with Mr. Larmon, made a tour of Albany, Schoharie, Delaware, Otsego, Montgomery, Herkimer, Schenectady, Fulton, Saratoga, Washington and Rensselaer counties. He was the guest of the state department of agriculture for four days required for the trip.

DEPARTMENT'S LITTLE JOKE.

Syracuse Bitter Over Difficulties of Militiamen.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 22.—There is much concern here over the delay the militia boys down on the Mexican border are being subjected to in securing their release from duty. The concern involves many dependent families not to mention the eagerness of the soldiers to return to their positions in civil life lest their pay in those occupations be stopped, if, indeed, the positions do not become lost to them.

The order of the war department of July 5 releasing militiamen with dependents provided they can secure affidavits of two disinterested persons, is peculiar to say the least. To obtain such affidavits down on the border is difficult. There is an opinion among the militiamen, according to letters received here from a few of the anxious ones in the Brownsville district, that this proviso is a "joker" made in order to keep as many men in the service as possible. The red tape of the war department is being bitterly criticised.

"Food Is Its Own Best Digestant"

"All too frequently, we prescribe medicines for patients who suffer from indigestion, when, as a matter of fact, what they actually need is a simple course of dietetic training, and the proper food-stuffs to train on.

"This is the famous 'reason' for the popularity of Grape-Nuts as an article of diet, viz., that it furnishes this very course of training for the digestion. Its not only furnishes the natural distaste for the process of digestion, but it favors a return to normal digestive function because the firm, crisp kernels compel thorough mastication.

"One ought not to leave out of consideration the psychic elements—the delicious treat to the palate afforded by a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream."

The Big Prize of the Month

Trade-marked furniture, nationally advertised in the magazines, each piece stamped with the maker's name—a name second to none in America—with 50 years of manufacturing back of it—

- dining-room furniture in oak and mahogany;
- bedroom furniture in mahogany, walnut and enamel;
- odd pieces for living-room and library;
- all in period designs;

At Half Regular Prices

The deal was made months ago at the factory. "You may have this stock at half," we were told, "provided you sell it out quickly (not to break the market) and do not advertise our name." Done! The patterns were standard (all of them period designs) the furniture was of regular manufacture—the only reason for the sale was because the factory is curtailing its variety in order to standardize and increase its output.

People who know fine furniture will recognize this as an extraordinary opportunity. Many who already have in their homes this same make of furniture (name on every piece) will be able to add to it at just half the usual cost.

The shipment is divided between our two stores, so that the quantity here will not be large enough to meet the demand that will arise. Fair warning to late comers.

The appended list merely suggests the rich prizes when you bear in mind that

Can Sell Without a License.

Commissioner of Agriculture Charles S. Wilson has pointed out that there is no law in this state requiring that vendors of vinegar must obtain a license from the department of agriculture in order to sell vinegar. An impression that such a license is necessary has existed as shown by applications received at the department for such licenses. Amendments to the law at the last session of the legislature did not include any provision for licenses for the selling of vinegar.

ITALIAN LINER, PRESUMABLY ON GOVERNMENT SERVICE, SUNK IN THE MEDITERRANEAN.

The Italian liner Stampsia, a 4,000-ton passenger vessel, which was wrecked between New York and Genoa, sank in the Mediterranean presumably by a German or Austrian submarine, is believed to have been on government service.

She sailed from New York on July 10. Early this month her agents in New York were notified that future sailings had been cancelled and the ship requisitioned by the Italian government. On her trip to New York she had been used for the delivery of mail and supplies. She had carried thousands of Italian recruits back to fight for their country.

The Stampsia was built in 1909 in Genoa and was 476 feet long with a beam of 38 feet.

Ancients Insured Their Crops.
The rural Indians of Peru still believe in "paying the Incas" for fear that their crops will fall if the ancient observances are neglected. Burnt offerings of drugs and aromatic plants are still made and small images are buried in the fields for the benefit of the crops and the herds. Such are the stone carvings, called ushe or pidras de Chacabana, that are still sold in the native market of La Paz, Bolivia.—National Geographic Magazine.

PUNISH WOMAN FOR VIOLATING RULES

Poughkeepsie Enforcing Quarantine With Fine—Children Now Kept Off Streets of Bridge City by Health Board Ruling—Other Reports.

Drastic measures in the enforcement of quarantine regulations are being resorted to in many localities and imposition of fines is reported from many localities. In Poughkeepsie where the number of cases has reached a total of 65 with 13 deaths, the health department has ordered children under 16 years of age to keep off the streets as well as out of public places. An exception was made for newboys with health certificates.

Mrs. Dora Swartz of 4 Bridge street, Poughkeepsie, whose child is suffering from infantile paralysis, was fined $10 in city court there for breaking the quarantine established on her home by taking an automobile ride with her husband. Both were arrested but only Mrs. Swartz was fined.

"The only way to curb this epidemic," said Dr. Wilson, health officer of Poughkeepsie, "is to keep the children at home, either in the house or in their own yards. I hate to place these restrictions on the little people, but I believe that it is for their best interests that it be done. In cases like this heroic measures sometimes must be adopted."

Middletown, where Dr. Edward Clark, a state sanitary supervisor, has headquarters, two more cases of infantile paralysis developed Monday. Donald J. Gibbons, a four year old boy, is the second victim and the physicians are puzzled as to the source of infection as Donald, with his six little brothers and sisters, have been kept closely at home for several weeks.

Two residents of Germantown, Columbia county, were fined $5 each for breaking quarantine rules in permitting their children under 16 years to attend a ball game at Chatham.

HURLEY.
Hurley, Aug. 22.—On Saturday afternoon, "The Knoll" was the scene of an exceedingly pleasant affair, when the ladies of the village assembled, ostensibly for a needle party but which soon became a most enjoyable social gathering with all doing homage to Mrs. Loughran's birthday cake. The party, after taking in the wonderful view for which "The Knoll" is famous, gathered at the side and rear of the house and there enjoyed the delicious cool breeze and the shady lawn, while "needling" and "near needling." The refreshments were not only delicious but most appropriate. Miss Margaret and Miss Gertrude were assiduous in the efforts to aid the hostesses in their endeavor to see that all were at ease and entertained.

Mrs. Anna Wyrtoop is again with us, visiting her friends.

Mrs. Margaret is visiting her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Van Sickle.

Mrs. Stewart is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Dumond; Mr. Stewart spent the week end there also. Mr. Dumond was persuaded to take an automobile trip the latter part of the week; he is feeling better than he has for some time.

Mr. Henckel came up from New York city to spend the usual week end with his family at Mrs. Maxon's, bringing Mr. Snedens with him.

Miss Cornelia DeWitt has returned from her trip around the Great Lakes and Georgian Bay. These trips are especially recommended now-a-days for showing the wonders of that section in an easy manner.

Miss Bevier's Genealogy of the Bevier family is approaching completion; this book will make a most valuable addition to the history of Ulster county.

The local Grange met Monday night at the house of Charles Snyder. Mrs. Dumond, wife of George P. Dumond was initiated.

The Misses Mae Collison, Mae Hansen, Dorothy and Carrie Christensen from Bogota, N. J., are spending their vacation at The Maples with their grandmother and Uncle Charlie. These young women are really enjoying the country in a most pleasant manner, having all the fun of camping out with many of its inconveniences eliminated and yet having all its advantages like their own cooking, plenty of fresh air and early morning dew.

Mrs. Maxon and Mr. Spencer of Kingston spent Sunday with Charles Dumond.

Mr. Harper and Mr. Dudley of New York city are at Mrs. Brink's.

Grant Smith's homestead has been the scene of much jollity and pleasure lately when many of Miss Ellen's friends are entertained there. Among them are Miss Helen Hymer of Delancy, Delaware county, and Miss Norma Clipperty of Troy. Both these young women are school friends of Miss Smith at Oneonta Normal School. Besides these Miss Ruth Hogan of Kingston and Miss Ethel Overbaugh of Richmondville, L. I., Howard Shaw of Delancy and Charles McClure of Tennessee, have also enjoyed the hospitality of the Smith home.

The bathing pool in the creek, the boys call it the "swimmin' hole," is furnishing much pleasure and solid comfort to our young people and some of them are really learning to swim. Every day a party seek a refreshing dip in its waters. Last Saturday a bevy of water nymphs were seen emerging from the rowdy by the creek; they could hardly be called water fairies as they were of too substantial a nature to be called such; how they did enjoy themselves.

Walter Eckert died Monday morning after a tedious illness. The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 1 p. m.

Edmund Hensendorf is visiting at the Hensendorf homestead.

Sylvan Althiser of Rhinebeck, a fruit tree canvasser, spent Friday night at L. Van Etten's.

A very small delegation compared with previous years, attended the fair at Ellenville last week. Mr. and Mrs. William DePuy, Rev. and Mrs. A. Quick and Mrs. L. Van Etten attended Wednesday. Frank Green, his son and nephew and Harold Van Etten on Thursday. Those who did go were well repaid for running the risk, if any.

Leonard Van Etten spent Sunday with relatives, the Rev. and Mrs. A. Quick.

Miss Sylvia Halwick has been spending the past week at the home of her parents here.

Two auto loads of city people from the Lavine boarding place went sight seeing to the great dam at Shokan last week. One car was from the Geary library at Kerhonkson. Henry Smith of this place was the chauffeur of the other.

Mrs. J. Lennon and children spent Friday visiting friends.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Aug. 22.—Church services were held at the chapel on Sunday evening, but there was a very small attendance.

On Friday of last week a party of young ladies from this place went on a picnic to the river at Ulster Park and reported a most enjoyable outing. Pictures were taken of the party at lunch and in bathing. (Larry Cheney).

Larry Cheney, the former Chicago Club pitcher, but now tossing the ball for the Brooklyn, is doing his share to keep the Dodgers in the lead for the National League flag. Cheney has been pitching a remarkable ball of late and recently blanked the Pittsburgh team on its home grounds. It also marked Cheney's sixth straight victory.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Aug. 21.—The only boarding house in the place, Echo Lodge, is well supplied with boarders at present.

Mrs. Benjamin Matlin, our postmistress, and her two children, Charles and Vera, enjoyed an auto trip around the Ashokan dam one Sunday recently.

Harry Van Wageningen is spending a short vacation at his home here.

Ice cream, soft drinks and peanuts will be for sale Friday evening, August 25, in the Boy Scouts Hall and on the lawn in the rear.

Rumors say that there will be several more autos in the place soon.

We have heard that the schools here will not open until October owing to the paralysis epidemic.

It is hoped that the services in the M. E. Church Sunday evening next will be well attended as Mr. Witkamp will probably preach his farewell sermon.

Mrs. S. M. Van Vliet, who has been ill, is somewhat improved at this time.

Miss S. Keider is spending her vacation with her parents here.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The Up-to-Date Store is a pretty busy place these days. They have marked down their $4 and $5-crepe de chine and other high grade waists to $2.50. Look at the big window display.

BURDEN OF REPLY PLACED IN EIGHT RAILROAD HEADS

All Responsibility for Consideration of President's Proposals Vested in Committee Which Plans to Give Time for Discussion of Issues— Little Hope for Early Settlement.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 22.—On the shoulders of eight of the biggest railroad executives in the country was today placed the responsibility for the consideration by the railroads of President Wilson's proposal to avert the threatened railway employees' strike. The big group of railroad executives delegated to a committee the formulation of the statement of facts upon which they would consider the impending crisis. The committee was given no authority to formulate a counter proposal to President Wilson, or to definitely recommend acceptance or rejection of the president's demands. Headed by Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the committee was named, it was announced, "for general consideration of the questions involved."

The committee went to work at once, and while the executives generally thrashed over various mooted points, the eight men sought to weed out of the situation all irrelevant and unimportant details. They proposed to confine the discussion of the situation by the railroad presidents to the bare essentials, and to this end they endeavored to eliminate all collateral questions.

The committee will lay before the railroad executives a statement of the conditions which must be met. In announcing the appointment of the committee, the railroad executives issued the following statement:

"Mr. Hale Holden, president of the Burlington, as spokesman for the railroad executives, who are conferring with President Wilson on the railroad wage problem, announced this morning that a committee from the three score executives now in Washington has been named for the general consideration of the questions involved."

"The members of the committee are Hale Holden, Burlington road; W. W. Atterbury, Pennsylvania railroad; Fairfax Harrison, Southern Railway; R. S. Lovett, Union Pacific railroad; E. P. Ripley, Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railway; Alfred H. Smith, New York Central railroad; Frank Trumbull, Chesapeake and Ohio railroad; Daniel Willard, Baltimore and Ohio railroad."

"The committee is in continuous session considering the situation, but it is understood that no conclusions have yet been reached."

"The members of the committee conferred with various groups of executives and sought to acquaint themselves with the various differing conditions confronting the railroads in different parts of the country. They prepared to hold continuous conferences with their colleagues until their work was completed."

Meantime hope for an early settlement of the situation today waned. The railroad executives were plainly determined to give the matter full and complete consideration. They proposed to thrash out every detail of the president's proposal and every possible effect of his plan on the railroad industry, before committing themselves upon it. It was apparent that their course would consume time, and it was expected that they would hardly be ready during the day.

Recognizing the probability of delay, President Wilson turned his attention temporarily to other matters. For the first time since the president took charge of the strike negotiations he called his cabinet to the White House today for a routine meeting.

A new feature entered the situation today when Chairman Hurley, of the federal trade commission, appeared at the hotel where the railroad executives have headquarters. He buttonholed a dozen of the western railroad executives and held what appeared to be a heated conference with them, in various parts of the lobby. He declared that he had no message from the president and that his interest was purely personal. He expressed confidence that a settlement would be reached, but said that he was unable to say just what position the railroad executives would take.

Meantime the executives committee deserted the headquarters hotel and took up consideration of the problem at the Metropolitan Club, Washington's most exclusive social institution. The members of the committee said it was impossible to guess how long it would take them to formulate their report.

The railway brotherhood committee held a brief conference in the Bijou Theatre during the morning and then recessed until 3 o'clock. Previously they accepted an invitation to visit the capital at 2 o'clock as the guests of Vice-president Marshall.

HOTEL THIEF IN LIGHT ATTIRE

Samuel J. Marcus, 30 years old, who is a patient at a local sanitarium, walked as far as Schoenag's Hotel at Glisco Sunday evening and at 11 o'clock was discovered ransacking the room of a woman guest. He was attired only in his underwear and when the woman entered the room he was stuffing some of her belongings in a suit case. She screamed and men connected with the hotel seized Marcus before he could escape.

When questioned, Marcus said he was staying at the hotel, but later admitted that he had walked from Kingston. He had removed his clothing and hung it in a vacant room. Then attired only in his underwear he had made the round of the guest rooms, selecting such objects as suited his fancy, and packing them in a suit case, which he had taken from another room. His idea in going about the hotel in such attire, he said, was to avoid suspicion if he was caught as he would be able to say that he was a guest at the hotel and had made a mistake in returning to his room.

Several things belonging to the young woman who discovered him were found in his possession and the total value of the guests' property he had consigned amounted to about $300.

During the day Marcus was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Underhill at Saugerties on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, and was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury. He was afterward paroled by Judge Jenkins in the custody of Dr. C. O. Sander of this city.

CRAP GAME PRELUDE TO STABBING AFFRAY

Before That There was a Clambake at Devil's Lake and Lindhurst had Ten Glasses of Beer.

A crap game in the back room of Pruena's saloon in North Rondout on a Sunday afternoon was the prelude to the stabbing of John Lindhurst of No. 105 Third avenue according to Lindhurst's story as told on the witness stand this morning in recorder's court before Recorder Lang when the hearing of Patrick Brophy, charged with stabbing Lindhurst, was taken up. Robert Howard of Brinmer and Canfield's law office, appeared in behalf of Lindhurst while Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for Brophy.

According to Lindhurst's story he had attended a clambake given by John Pruena at Devil's Lake on Sunday, August 6. He said they had five quarters of beer at the bake, but he had only drunk a few glasses. Later in the afternoon he had gone to Pruena's saloon and spent the remainder of the day in the back room. Altogether he had had about ten glasses of beer. About 9 o'clock Sunday night Brophy came in the back room Lindhurst said that Brophy greeted by calling him a vile name, and he had retorted by saying "That's all right, Brophy."

Still later Brophy produced some dice and a game was started by Brophy. Richard Dempsey and Lindhurst. Lindhurst's capital was 12 cents. While the game was in progress some argument arose and Lindhurst said that Brophy called him some more vile names. He enumerated the names for the benefit of the court.

Finally Brophy left the saloon and Lindhurst and Dempsey also started for home. Outside Brophy came across the street after Lindhurst and Dempsey and started Brophy hit Dempsey. He then started for Lindhurst, who retreated for about 200 feet. Finally Lindhurst said he saw an opening and hit Brophy alongside the nose, knocking Brophy down. Brophy's feet entangled Lindhurst, who fell on top of Brophy. When he got up he said "Brophy, I am cut." Lindhurst then started back to the saloon while Brophy and Dempsey continued on toward their homes.

This in substance was the story told by Lindhurst of the affair. Questioned by Judge O'Reilly in regard to what he had done at the clambake he said he had carried water.

"Did you drink any water?" asked Judge O'Reilly.

Lindhurst replied that he had not and his answer caused considerable amusement to the spectators present in the court room.

During the hearing Dr. Quinlan was called and testified to the extent of injuries Brophy had received in the fracas, which included a black eye.

Richard Dempsey, who according to Lindhurst was one of the party of crap shooters in the saloon, was the last witness called at the morning session, and he told of the affair as he remembered it.

An adjournment was taken at 12:30 to 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the hearing was continued.

Army Bill Passed.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 22.—Without a record vote, the house this afternoon passed the army appropriation bill, a bill introduced by Representative Hays of Virginia, chairman of the house military affairs committee, without the articles of war appended. The bill will now go to the senate, where it is expected the articles of war will be put back in it without the Hay amendment, which caused the president to veto it.

BARN BURNED BUT AUTO WAS SAVED

The large hay and stock barn on Henry Elting's estate in the town of Lloyd burned to the ground Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is thought a tramp probably had been lodging in the hay and had been smoking.

The complete hay stock was destroyed and one valuable calf was lost. Fortunately the horses were saved and the large touring car which the Eltings had purchased Saturday. The actual loss will amount to $2,000, with insurance.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

In the matter of proving the will of Sophie Lemcke, a petition for the probate of which was filed some time ago by Arthur G. Carr, Surrogate Gill has issued a commission to William G. DeMeza, a justice of the peace of Plainfield, N. J., to take the testimony of the witnesses, Mrs. T. Logan Murphy and Miss Anne Murphy, both of North Asbury Park, N. J. The petition on which the order for the commission was granted set forth that Mr. Carr has been in communication with the witnesses in regard to procuring their attendance at the surrogate's court for the purpose of proving the will but that neither of them expects to come here or to come within the state of New York. Brinmer and Canfield appeared for the petitioner.

COFIELD LIBERATED.

County Judge Directs Release of Boy From Randall's Island.

Judge Jenkins has sustained the writ of habeas corpus recently procured by Lawyer Frank W. Brooks on behalf of Albert Coffield, a 14 year old colored boy who was committed to Randall's Island by Recorder Lang on July 11. Judge Jenkins directs that the boy be discharged from Randall's Island and places him in the custody of his mother, Mrs. Mary Coffield. The boy was arrested in company with Frank Schermerhorn and Augustus Elmendorf on a charge of breaking open a slot machine at the Fair street station of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company. Schermerhorn was committed to the Catholic Protectors at Westchester and Elmendorf was released on probation. The application for Coffield's release was made on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence, the only evidence connecting him with the offense being hearsay evidence, and that the record did not make any record of the testimony taken at the trial but in making his return set forth testimony which he claimed had been given. The case was argued before Judge Jenkins on August 11 and his decision was handed down Monday.

STORMY SCENES IN WOMEN'S LEAGUE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 22.—Stormy scenes were precipitated today in the meeting of the Catholic Women's League when a resolution was moved to separate the women's organization from the national federation of Catholic Societies. The motion, which was made by the Rev. J. M. Corrigan, of Philadelphia, was voted down and the meeting broke up in disorder after the presiding officer, Miss Helen M. Hane, had turned the chair over to Francis Slatery, of Boston. Only about half of the women voted, the recorded vote being 53 against the motion and 16 in favor of it.

Mrs. Martha Moore-Avery delivered a scathing attack against woman suffrage, saying:

"If we should be unfortunate enough to have a woman suffrage party in Massachusetts, I would organize the Catholic women against the divorce evil which would be sure to follow."

Mrs. Moore-Avery also attacked socialism, saying it was allied with atheism.

Bishop P. J. Muldoon, of Rockford, Ill., who addressed the women upon their civic obligations, said:

"Do not blame things on the Protestants. If you do not join in these movements for the public betterment, you have no right to complain. The terrible theory of birth control needs all the corrective influences of Catholic thought in forming community opinions."

Today.

Today is your day and mine; the only day we have: the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand; but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know: It is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love, not of cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other course of life leads toward decay and waste.—David Starr Jordan.

A FANTASTIC FRIGATE.

His Captain Did the Best He Could With the Paint He Had.

Before the days of steel ships the allowance of paint in the British navy was very small, and sometimes the officers had to pay large sums in order that their ships might maintain a decent appearance.

Sir John Phillimore resorted to a curious expedient either to soften the heart of the navy board or, if that proved impossible, to express his opinion of the situation. He painted one side of his yellow frigate black and white and used the rest of the black paint in printing on the other side in large letters, "No More Paint!"

The navy board wrote to call his attention to the impropriety of the signature, to which Sir John responded in acknowledging the letter that he regretted that the paint had not been sent and ending, "I am no longer your affectionate friend, John Phillimore."

The naval authorities then called his attention to the impropriety of the signature, to which Sir John responded in acknowledging the letter that he regretted that the paint had not been sent and ending, "I am no longer your affectionate friend, John Phillimore."

His frigate was permitted to retain her original yellow, and thus the navy board punished Sir John's impertinence.

LIKED BLACK VILLAINS.

Audiences in Shakespeare's Time Wanted No Neutral Knaves.

There has been a dreadful amount of these majesty talked about "Richard III." recently. "It is to be feared," says the London Times, "that 'Richard III.' has seen his best days," and the Manchester Guardian says boldly that the play, with all its paraphernalia of villains and victims and ghosts and weeping queens, "is perhaps best enjoyed nowadays with laughter."

Not so did playgoers think in Shakespeare's time or for centuries later. For at least fifty years after it was written "Richard III." was probably the most popular of the Shakespearean plays. It was printed ten times in thirty-seven years—often more than any other of the plays during a similar period of the early century.

Critics have wrangled long and loud over the problem, but there seems no getting away from the conclusion that the audience of King James' time preferred its villains black and thoroughly bad and entirely free from those ambiguous and neutral tints which are so perplexing in, say, "Macbeth."—London Observer.

A Man Who Knew Everything.

Thiers, the French statesman, was a victim of many whimsies. None had stronger hold on him, says Mr. Gabriel Hanotaux in "Contemporary France," than his desire to get everybody to recognize his universal competence.

Of an applicant for the post of director at the Sevres manufactory Thiers said:

"He is no more made for that part than I for"—and then he stopped.

"An, on! M. Thiers," said his interlocutor, "you find it hard to say what you could not do."

"That's the truth! That's the truth!" cried the statesman gleefully.

One day Thiers said, speaking of a man who had been raised to a high function:

"He is no more suited for that office than I am to be a druggist. And yet," he added, catching himself up, "I do know chemistry!"

Force of Light.

Light has an actual mechanical pressure and can be measured in the laboratory. It has been found that the sun's light in itself presses against the earth with a force something like 70,000 tons. As the surface of a sphere varies as the square of the radius, and as the volume or mass varies as the cube of the radius, and as the mechanical pressure of light on the whole surface varies as that surface, and as the force of gravity varies as the mass, if a sphere is made smaller and smaller it is easily seen that the pressure of light does not decrease so fast as the force of gravity, so bodies beyond a certain minuteness could not reach the sun, but would be repelled by the mechanical force of its light.

Treating a Cut.

When you have a cut, a scratch, a bruise or any other kind of injury paint it with iodine. As soon as injured dip a toothpick with cotton rolled on the end of it in the iodine and paint over the wound without washing. The iodine will kill all germs in the dirt that gets into the wound, while washing only drives the germs farther into the flesh. When painted with the iodine wrap the injured part in a clean cloth for a couple of days.

A Submarine Record.

Although the submarine is in a way, nearly 300 years old, yet the first under sea destroyer to sink a hostile warship without also sinking herself was the E-9 of the British navy, which in September, 1914, blew up the German cruiser Helia in Heligoland light—Argonaut.

A Terrible Slight.

"What do you think? A man brought back the umbrella he took from our hall stand."

"Hm! It speaks well for the honesty of the man, I should say, but it is a terrible slight to the umbrella."—Exchange.

The easiest thing I know of.

"The easiest thing I know of," says a philosopher, "is to begin to save up some money next month."

A Few Words.

"Did you hear many words with your wife last night?"

"No: only a few words, but they were repeated—very often."

Equity.

British courts of equity are those of the lord chancellor, the vice-chancellor and master of the rolls, their office being to correct the operation of the strict text of the law, supplying its defects by the reasonable construction not admissible in a court of law.

MANY PLAYERS HURT IN HUSTLE

SOME OF THE STARS INCAPACITATED THIS SEASON.

More star ball players have been injured this year than in any previous season in a decade and the fans throughout the country are mystified. They cannot understand why these accidents to stars should occur so regularly. The answer is that baseball is a different game this season. For several years the players have been reaping a harvest. The natural advancement of the game and the increase of the profits of the magnates caused the salaries of players to mount rapidly, and then came the war between organized ball and the Feds.

The players took advantage of the conditions and held the magnates up for salaries all out of proportion to their value, with the result that the majority of the clubs lost money in 1914 and 1915. There was nothing left for organized ball to do but make peace with the Federal league, and the retrenchment policy was adopted by the magnates. Almost every star player of the two major leagues was tied up to two or three-year contracts, the majority of which expire at the close of the present season, and the players now are hustling. In recent years the players refused to take any unnecessary chances. They were content to draw their salaries and preferred to take no chances on injuries, realizing that a serious accident would hurt their earning capacity.

When the magnates announced that there would be a general cut in salaries after the long term, war-time contracts had expired, the players realized that they would have to get out and hustle or they would be cut even more than they expect. As a result, they are making plays and taking desperate chances which were unknown in the last two seasons.

There is no question about the hustling of the players this season. They are working harder than ever, realizing that their new contracts will be based entirely upon what they show this season and not on past reputation, as was the case when the Feds were in the field. Perhaps many fans have noticed how much faster the games are this year.

Almost every club in two major leagues has been handicapped by injuries to star players, with the Athletics, Yankees and Indians the chief sufferers. One list places the number of crippled players at 51, but this includes many of the usual ailments, such as sore arms and lame shoulders, which are in no way due to the revival of the fighting spirit of the players.

Nineteen members of the Athletics and Yankees have been out of the game, each for a week or longer, and six broken bones are included in the list of injuries. Other players who have sustained broken bones are: Herbert of the Giants, broken leg; Chapman of Cleveland, broken leg; Adams of the Phillies, broken finger; Cady of Boston, broken finger; Magee of Boston, broken wrist; Fletcher of the Giants, broken finger, and Archer of the Cubs, broken finger.

FANCIFUL IDEAS OF PLAYERS

Polly McLarry, Former Cub Player, Is Collector of Bats—Different Stick Each Inning.

Talking about fanciful notions of ball players, a Los Angeles correspondent furnishes this:

"Polly McLarry has a hobby. He is a collector of bats. Since joining the Angels McLarry, according to Secretary Boots Weber's figures, broke something less than a thousand bats, and has as many more ordered on the way. McLarry has a different bat for every inning, and sometimes he is liable to switch clubs while at the plate."

Ray Caldwell's work has shown a big improvement of late.

The Central league is in the best financial condition it has ever been in.

Pitcher Barnes of the Braves has as much speed as Alexander or Walter Johnson.

Joe Judge, first baseman of Washington, may never be able to play baseball again.

Ray Schalk, star catcher of the White Sox, still outclasses all of the big league backstops.

Luther Cook, the former New York outfielder, has been benched by the Oakland club for poor hitting.

Next to Grover Cleveland Alexander, Ed Pfeffer of the Robins has no equal in President Tener's circuit just now.

Del Howard, former manager of the San Francisco club, is in with Orrie Overall on the purchase of the Oakland club.

In spite of the fact that Tillie Walker is hitting and fielding well, it is impossible for the Boston fans to forget Tris Speaker.

Comiskey paid $11,000 for Eddie Murphy to Mack and $9,000 for Memo Leibold to the Cleveland. Both are bench warmers now.

Colonel Ebbets declares that Rule Marquand can hold his own in the pennant chase of the Brooklyn team will be increased 25 per cent.

John McGraw, the Giants' boss, employs an effective though heartless method to make his punters behave. He threatens to trade up to St. Louis.

John McGraw says he has put over some very important deals in his life, but he never put one over that meant as much for him as the one he just made for Harrow.

With so many of our very best tossers drawing suspensions for rough stuff during the cool days it is to be hoped that the hot weather will lay off for the remainder of the season.

Polly McLarry.

plate. Naturally he needs quite a supply of weapons on hand. On the other hand, Harry Wolter has yet to send in a bill for a bat to the Los Angeles club. Harry grabs whatever bat is nearest his hand when it is his turn to go up and hit. It makes no difference to him who is pitching or how many are on bases. One bat is as good as the next. Wolter gets results from his system, and McLarry punches out hits with his thousand bats. So what's the use?

"No: only a few words, but they were repeated—very often."

MOHONK QUARANTINE.
Official Statement by the Management Gives Details.
Disguise it though we may, infantile paralysis is much in the minds of all. Perhaps a few reassuring words may excuse The Bulletin for another mention of the dreaded subject, says the last number of the Lake Mohonk official publication.
In justice to neighboring towns, it should be said that the rumors—some from official quarters—as to the dire conditions in Ulster county are being rapidly disproved. Numerous cases have occurred, but they have been notably few when it is considered that thousands upon thousands of city children habitually throng the boarding houses in this county. Doubtless, however, a certain degree of exaggeration is desirable to impress many not over-thoughtful of their fellows. The notice now on the office bulletin board shows the effort of Marletown—in which this house is located—to protect its citizens and the public. Other towns are no less zealous in protective measures.
As to the Mohonk estate, since July 12th, assurance of freedom from danger has been required in the case of all children. Since July 28th, children under sixteen have not been admitted as day visitors or picnic parties. Since August 1st—and this is significant because two weeks is considered evidence of freedom from the disease—no child under sixteen has been received as a guest. At present, all children really or apparently under the prescribed age limit are prohibited from entering the estate, and, of course, children now here must not be allowed to leave the estate with the expectation of returning. Guards and gates are employed to make more effective this prohibition which will be maintained as long as conditions warrant; and until such time as children may be safely admitted, the management asks the forbearance of all guests affected, at the same time thanking heartily those who, to help protect the children now at Mohonk, have willing cancelled long-standing engagements.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

New York, Aug. 22.—The frenzied rush of the Browns has changed St. Louis from a gloom-stricken city to one of baseball madness; from base-ball sorrow to such baseball joy as the Mississippi river town hasn't known for many, many moons.
Everything else there seems to be forgotten excepting that the amazing dash of the Brownies has lifted them to within a few notches of the apex of the American League and created the possibility of a St. Louis team "homing" into the 1916 world series drama.
The St. Louis fan this season has experienced a rapid succession of baseball emotions; enthusiasm first, then pessimism, then utter disgust and anger, then the rekindling of that earlier enthusiasm which burned and glowed until now it has developed to a flame of baseball fever.
When the American League race began, the fans were enthusiastically confident. They figured that the amalgamation of the Browns and St. Louis Feds had given Fielder Jones an unbeatable team. But when the first month of battling was over, with the Browns anchored near the awful Athletic craft, the St. Louis confidence oozed—and was gone!
Hope—Despair—And Hope Again.
By middle June, when the Jones outfit had floundered its way into seventh place, a feeling of bitterness surged through fandom; optimism to extreme pessimism and the earlier words of praise were recalled to be substituted with speeches of condemnation.
Fielder Jones, hailed in the springtime as the Moses who was to lead St. Louis to the promised land of Pennant, became the target for the verbal and printed shafts of St. Louis fans and writers; Jones, in short, was just as popular in St. Louis along about June 15, as Kaiser Bill would be in the House of Lords in London.
And then came the form reversal of the Browns, the sudden and startling transformation that upset the baseball world in general and has afflicted St. Louis with the most malignant case of baseballitis since which it has been afflicted since back in 1908 when the Brownies of that era came very, very close to winning the bunting.
Brownie Fans Confident.
When the winning streak of the Browns was checked at 14 some of the fainthearted felt that it meant the end of the sprint. But when the Browns started right out again after that setback, piling themselves against the strongest teams in the Johnson circuit—and steam-rolling all of them—the faint hearts became stout, fear no longer assailed; confidence in the Browns became absolute in St. Louis.
The Jones crew still is several notches from the top—and the pathway is not smooth. The Browns may reach the rest, but even if they do it isn't in any way certain that they'll hold it indefinitely. The Red Sox, White Sox, Indians, Yankees and Tigers all must be reckoned with. But in St. Louis the townsfolk cannot agree with that viewpoint. They won't admit the existence of any other club but the Browns in the final drive to the pennant.
"We'll win, sure," is the St. Louis sentiment. "Jones has his team on its way now—and nothing can stop its permanently until it has snatched the pennant. The old boy has the pitchers, the batters, the basemen and the fielders—and he's got the team playing with machine-like regularity that nothing can stop."
But whether the Browns win the pennant or not, one thing is certain—Phil Ball, in his first year as an American League manager will make money. Ball is afflicted with a top heavy payroll due to wartime contracts; his overhead expense is large. But his income for 1916, even should the Browns slip backward from now on, will be greater than the outgo. And Ball is smiling one of those smiles that nothing can efface.
When the former Federal League manager paid close to a half million for the Browns the "wise ones" shouted "gold brick." But Ball wasn't worried.
"St. Louis is a great ball town," he said. "The man who can give it a winner will make money no matter how great his expenses. I'm going to do everything I can to lift St. Louis from its customary place near the bottom to one up around the top—and to blaze with the cost."
Begins to look as if Ball will succeed where the Hedges' regime so miserably failed.

KINGSTON WOMAN IS SHOWING CLASS

Westerners Have Something to Learn From Mrs. Ralph Voigt, Who is an Adept at Swimming and Diving—Now in Sioux City.
Mrs. Ralph Voigt of this city, whose stage name is Ella Wahlburg, is touring the west, where she is showing people what a real swimmer and diver can do.
Her ability as a swimmer is well known in this city, where she was instructress for the women's class at the Y. M. C. A. some time ago. A number of women who took lessons from her at that time are endeavoring to secure her services for the coming winter.

Mrs. Voigt in Swimming Costume.

The Sioux City Journal, where Mrs. Voigt has been establishing new swimming records, publishes her portrait and says:
"Incidentally, before taking the plunge from the boat dock starting point, she discoursed to some extent on sensible bathing suits. The fair bathers at the lake wear too many clothes, she advised.
"There's no use for woman to burden herself down because man isn't used to bare knee caps, except on the stage," she said. "Women never can learn to get the best advantage out of the greatest exercise in the world until they quit trying to drag half a ton of clothes around in the water with them. There's a lot to this equality of the sex bunk. Like that, and custom or something like that, is pretty soon all the women will be wearing no more clothes at bathing beaches than men are used to wearing. People will get used to it and think nothing of it. Why, in France—"
The picture shows Miss Wahlburg's idea of a sensible bathing suit for fair swimmers, whether they be fair or non-fair.
She persists that those women swimmers from Sioux City who wear the Annette Kellerman uniforms only in dangerous and secluded spots at the lake soon will be braving the crowds at the beaches.
In the meantime, the street car companies are provincial enough to be making plans for added service to the resort.
Optimistic Thought.
Treason has no place when obedience holds principality.

Hot Livers.
(By Frank G. Menke.)
The Phillies lost a golden opportunity to climb up on the Dodgers yesterday when they dropped both games of a double header to the Pirates while the league leaders were losing to the Cubs.
Jacques Fournier gathered four singles in four times up against Nick Culp, of the Yankees.
The 2 to 1 victory of the Braves over the Reds sent them into second place in the National League scrimmage.
Morton, the Indian pitcher, lost his own game to the Red Sox when he gave four passes and mixed them up with three errors.
The Giants continue to move in the general direction of the cellar. And they're moving swiftly, too.
Bobby Veach, of the Tigers, had a field day against the Athletics. He made three hits in four times up, scored three runs, stole two bases and registered a put-out on his only chance during the game.
Davenport, the Brown giant, scored another victory yesterday, beating the Senators without trouble.

STUNG FOR SUMMER'S RENT.
Ben. W. Johnston Dispossesses Unwelcome Tenants From Camp.
Returning from a trout fishing trip to the head waters of the Rondout creek at Sundown, Ben. W. Johnston and Edwin Tongue brought with them a stirring story of the summary ejection of unwelcome tenants they discovered holding forth in Mr. Johnston's summer camp where they passed the week.
Upon arrival in camp the presence of the apparently all summer occupants was not suspected by either fisherman until they made preparation for slumber at an early hour such as all disciples of Isaac Walton keep. Just as they were swinging the furniture on the sleeping porch, the tenants, members of the Vespa family, made themselves felt in a series of stinging attacks and drove the two campers into the house. After binding up injuries, Mr. Johnston proceeded to assert the rights of ownership and sallied forth with a weapon made up out of whole cloth with kerosene and a lighted match applied. The Vespa outfit then took flight while the victors applied balm to their burns.
The Vespa family also goes by the name in that vicinity and elsewhere of yellow jackets. Mr. Johnston's arms still bear traces of the encounter. The brook trout catches averaged a nice mess daily, the fish running to good size.

WOMAN AVIATOR SEEKS LICENSE TO FLY IN U. S. ARMY CORPS.
(Mrs. Waldo Pierce).
New York, Aug. 22.—Having qualified as an air pilot, Mrs. Waldo Pierce is today planning to take the tests for a military aviator's license that she may be qualified to fly for the United States army.
She passed all the flying tests, both alone and with passenger, at the flying field near Mineola, and will receive her license as soon as the official reports are passed by the License Committee of the Aero Club of America.
Mrs. Pierce is a daughter of the late Isaac L. Rice, the inventor. Her husband is now with the American Ambulance Corps in France. She will soon take the tests for the military aviator's license, and when she receives that certificate will be the only woman aviator in the country qualified to fly for the army.
